

WE NOMINATE

Courtland Davis Perkins, 47-year old Princetonian, whose contributions to the startling forward sweep of the aeronautical sciences will be recognized early next week in Washington with his "swearing in" as Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Research and Development. Nominated last February by President Eisenhower and recently approved by the Senate for this pivotal post, the Philadelphia-born Perkins succeeds a former associate in Princeton University's Department of Aeronautical Engineering, Joseph Charyk, now Undersecretary of the Air Force.

One of the promising young scientists called to Princeton shortly after World War II by the late Daniel Clemens Sayre, as the latter "placed in orbit" his then struggling three-year old program of aeronautical engineering and proceeded to lay the groundwork for the University's acquisition of the James Forrestal Research Center, Perkins succeeded Sayre as department chairman in 1951. In the intervening decade, with time-out for a year (1956-57) as Chief Scientist of the U. S. Air Force, Perkins has been a driving force in the development of a program of study and research which has won international attention.

It was this past fall that Perkins' department, to the chagrin of napping Princeton newspapermen and publicists, dramatically documented the quality of its basic research. At a Princeton-sponsored conference on "Ground Effect Phenomena" Princeton scientists unveiled their Air Scooter, a cumbersome, bicycle-like contraption that rides a cushion of air inches above the ground at a scant ten miles per hour. What pent conference observers scurrying back to their drawing-boards was the lifting capacity of the Scooter which, with a 5-horsepower, chain-saw engine, lifted 15 times the load hoisted by a helicopter of the same power.

In the same way he encouraged his associates to carry forward their investigations of ground effect phenomena, (that some day could be combined with the conventional wing to permit planes to hover on take-off and landing), Perkins has been concerned with basic research ever since he abandoned ground-based industry to complete his scientific training at M.I.T. As a Senior Aeronautical Engineer in the Air Materiel Command of the U.S.A.F. during American de-II, he was in close touch with major American developments in military aviation and helped establish scientific methods for quantitatively evaluating the handling qualities of wartime aircraft.

Formerly consultant to the Weapons System Evaluation Group operating under this country's Joint Chiefs of Staff, and more recently editor of a series of international research publications for the NATO-sponsored Advisory Group for Aeronautical Research and Development, he has also been closely linked with the advisory boards of pace-setting firms in the aircraft industry. A licensed pilot, and an honors graduate of Swarthmore, he is possibly the only Princeton scientist-teacher who has been able to claim high-level affiliation with both the Borough and Township Boards of Education—through his wife in the Borough and his brother, Vice-President of the Carnegie Corporation of New York, in the Township.

For meriting the high honor that will be officially bestowed upon him Monday; for assuming responsibilities which day-by-day can become heavier as the world moves farther into the space age; for still insisting that he is, first of all, a teacher; he is Town Topics' nominee for Agencies Present Budgets. Sixteen agencies affiliated with the Princeton United Community Fund last week presented budgets totalling $261,000 to the Princeton community. It was the fifth annual Budget Panel Conference, held each year in Princeton High School to provide a public forum for residents of Princeton so that they can examine each agency budget, tear it apart if necessary and, hopefully, approve it wholeheartedly as it stands. Last year's Fund goal was $212,000.

Each panel of about 15 members listened to the agency presentation, asked questions and then, in "executive session," with the agency representatives waiting anxiously outside, discussed the budget and decided whether to approve, approve with qualifications, or not to approve at all.

The reports of each panel will be referred to the Community Fund Budget Committee, which will, in turn, recommend specific Fund allocations for each agency out of the total budget. Agencies are asking about $142,500 more, on the whole, than they did last year.

One of the largest increases has been requested by Princeton Hospital, which is seeking an additional $20,000. This represents about 19 percent of the total Fund budget, but it is the first increase the Hospital has asked for in ten years, according to John W. Kauffman, Hospital administrator, who made the budget presentation. Mr. Kauffman pointed to substantial Hospital salaries, the increased cost of medicine, and the desire to avoid further rate increases as the primary reasons behind the Hospital's request.

It had been expected that considerable opposition to the Hospital's budget would be expressed by several members of the Child-Birth Education League who had asked to be assigned to the Panel, but only one member of the league appeared.

 "The Same People Help." The Fund panels serve an informative and useful function in the Princeton Community; that was the consensus at the conclusion of Wednesday night's panels.
 "But you are the same names on the panels, the same volunteers making agency presentations and the same names on the lists of big donors," one Fund official said. "It's always the same dedicated people who do the work."

Members of the panels were chosen from all areas of life in Princeton: Dr. R. P. Wang gave his professional backing to the Child Guidance presentation; James Warren, a controller in professional life, gave valuable advice to the Children's Home and YMCA budgeters; Mrs. William Z. Abrams contributed to the Nursery School panel the experience of years of nursery school work. Similar examples could be cited for almost every panel.

Many participants were particularly interested in learning about some of the more relevant agencies, like the Children's Home Society, the Cerebral Palsy Association or the Mental Health Association. If the remarks about increased publicity are taken seriously by these agencies, the Princeton community may be hearing much more about them in the future.

LIGHT INDUSTRY SOUGHT

In Princeton Township, an amendment to the zoning ordinance which would permit desirable light industry to locate in the present engineering research zone of Princeton Township is currently being sought by the Township Committee. The Planning Board has been asked to draw up a formula which would provide for such industry.

Purpose of the amendment, according to Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman, would be to encourage potential rateables which have no "characteristics." The existing ordinance, he explained, eliminates many desirable research and engineering enterprises simply because their work also involves the incidental production of devices developed in their research laboratories.

The zoning formula desired, Mayor Fairman said, is one which would permit light industry of an acceptable nature but would also provide strict safeguards to insure that the enterprise will not produce smoke, smells, noise, etc., and will otherwise be a credit to the community. Such zoning formulas have been successfully used in other communities, he said.

The location of such business in the Township would not materially change its population growth pattern, the mayor said. "Research and engineering concerns located in West Windsor, South Brunswick and other neighboring towns bring people who want to live in Princeton," he said. "We might as well get the benefit of having such businesses pay taxes to the Township. We need such rateables in order to keep our tax rate within reasonable bounds."

Candidate On Hand. A firm which would be able to locate in Princeton Township under the proposed zoning amendment has already expressed its desire to do so. James H. Mount, committeeman who is chairman of the spontaneously-organized Committee of Economic Development, said that this firm is a perfect example of the kind of light industry which the Township Committee would like to have settle here.

Mr. Mount said that this firm, which he declined to identify, is a research organization which makes and sells experimental

"Don't Sweep It Under the Rug, Mother!"

Trash, cans, leaves, brush and other assorted debris you have been ignoring will be collected by the Borough and Township as Clean-Up Week begins on Monday.

Both municipalities have no set schedule for pickups: their trucks will get around as often as possible, and the borough will try to adhere to its regular days for garbage and can collections. Friday, May 6, will be the last day for Township collections with the Borough picking up in an additional day on Saturday, May 7.

The Borough's engineering department is planning to distribute a handbill, announcing the "six-day run" of the "melodrama, Clean-Up Week," in which "black-hearted villains" will be vanquished by a "cast of thousands of stars, including each and every worthy, civic-minded Princetonian and his sisters and his cousins and his aunts."

Act I: The Clean-Up, or

models. It is excluded under the present zoning ordinance.

"This is the type of firm we would like to see located in Princeton," he said. "Its personnel consists mainly of those with Ph.D. and Master's Degrees in research, and it would have about 1,000 employees at its top capacity."

The only way to admit this firm now, Mr. Mount said, is through a zoning variance. While a variance will probably be granted in this case, he said, there is no way of knowing how many similar firms have given up the idea of locating in Princeton Township because of the zoning regulations. The only way to encourage such organizations, he added, is through the proposed amendment.

FIRE COMPANY SENDS BILL

To Township Committee. The trustees of Kingston Volunteer Fire Company No. 1 have rendered a uniform bill to the Township for fire-fighting services during the last six months. The two items include $375 for the fire on the Quaker farm last November 10, and $125 for the fire at the Herrington Road sewer plant on April 11.

The letter states, "We would like to remind the committee that their present approach to fire protection should be seriously reviewed. An objective analysis of both the fire mentioned above will prove the inadequacy of the alarm system used within the Township."

Under an informal agreement, the Township used to contribute $200 a year to the Kingston company for whatever services it could provide. Over a year ago, the volunteer fire company asked for $600, and the Township decided it no longer needed to call upon Kingston regularly since the Borough had set up its Harrison Street station. It was felt the new facility would provide adequate fire protection for residents in the eastern section of the Township. The letter also referred to the Township's request to wash the Kingston bridge after a serious accident there on February 25. No bill was sent for this service

"Gee, I never dreamed it was that easy." Act II: The Pick-Up, or "The Collector Cometh." (In addition to the truck pickup, Princeton Post 76, American Legion, will collect newspapers this Sunday.)

Acts III through VI feature The Sweep-Up, The Point-Up, The Fix-Up and The Plant-Up. To further inspire Borough residents, the municipality thoughtfully provides a map on the reverse side of the mailing, showing various Princeton landmarks (Scene of the Play, "Don't Let This Become the Scene of the Crime").

Both Borough and Township stress the importance of cleanliness: leaves and grass clippings should be placed in containers, not left loose at the side of the street; all trash must be tied in bundles or placed in containers; every bundle must be small enough to be handled by one man.

Have a nice weekend.

because of the location. The company will continue to respond whenever it is called upon, the letter said. The Committee is considering the situation.

NEW SCHOOL PLANNED

In Princeton Township. A new elementary school in Princeton Township, under consideration for some time now, is scheduled to become a reality by September, 1962. The decision to go ahead with plans for the new school, which will be located in the central section, near Valley Road School, was announced this week by the Township Board of Education.

"Our chief question has been when the new elementary school would be needed," explained Mrs. Jess Epstein, chairman of the board. "It now seems clear that we cannot delay beyond September, 1962, without endangering our program at Valley Road or needlessly transporting younger children from the central district to other outlying elementary schools."

Under a timetable adopted at the board's April meeting, a Citizens' Advisory Committee and an architect will be appointed this Spring to make preliminary plans. These will be presented for public discussion and consideration next Fall. Bids are to be received in the Spring of 1961, with construction to start that Summer and be completed by July 1, 1962.

Tying in with the Township's Master Plan recommendation that "the new school be integrated with the expansion plans for Township Hall and the central Community Park development," the board's Committee on School Sites will meet regularly with members of the Township Committee, the Recreation Commission and the Trustees of the Community Park Foundation. In this way, the school is expected to augment the Township's recreational plans for the central section.

Beyond Capacity Now. In deciding to go ahead with plans for the new school, the board pointed out that the school population in the central section is already beyond the capacity of Valley Road School. Valley Road has an optimum capacity of 619 children, and this year there are 306 children in grades 7 and 8 and 408 children from the central section attending kindergarten through grade 6, for a total of 714.

At the present time, the excess is handled by transporting some lower grade children to the Johnson Park and Littlebrook Schools. The school population in the central section, the board said, is expected to increase, leading to higher transportation costs, greater inconvenience to more families, and, finally, inability to accommodate any lower grade children at Valley Road. In the board's judgment, the problem will become critical after 1962.

AUTHOR AND PRODUCER CONFER: W. H. Auden (left) discussing production of his "Age of Anxiety" with Producer John Becker prior to Thursday night opening in Murray Theatre. Actress Georgine Hall and dancer Cal Mittleman listen to poet Auden's thoughts on the dramatization of his work.

News Of The THEATRES

FANNIE HURST ON PANEL
For "Age of Anxiety," Novelist
Fannie Hurst will appear with W.
H. Auden, Sean O'Faolain and Jimmy Durante in the television sequence in "Age of Anxiety," opening this Thursday evening, at Murray Theatre. The Theatre In-time production will also be presented this Friday and Saturday and again from next Monday through next Saturday, May 7, all performances at 8:30.
John Becker, well-known television director who is staging this production of Auden's poem, arranged for the filming of the celebrities for the show. The stage version of the poem was done by Mr. Becker and Graham Ferguson, with advice from Mr. Auden. An added feature will be the modern jazz music of Norin Symonds, written especially for this production.

Far from being a "reading" of the Auden work, "Age of Anxiety" is a thorough theatrical production, employing the newest techniques of modern stage-craft and yet retaining the core and spirit of Auden's words. A cast of four will speak the poet's lines. Emery Battis portrays a middle-aged man. William Harman is an intellectual who hides his fears with epigrams. Jeffrey Moss is a nervous young man and Georgine Hall is a demi-mondaine weary of the world but not weary of men.
Tickets may be ordered by calling WA 4-3539. They are also on sale at the University Store.

THEY'RE OFF TO SEA
On H. M. S. Pinafore, "H.M.S.
Pinafore," Gilbert and Sullivan's rollicking operetta about the captain who "never — well, hardly ever" went to sea and the lass who loved a sailor, will open this Friday evening at McCarter Theatre. The Savoyard production will also be presented this Saturday evening and at both matinee and evening performances next Saturday, May 7.
Starring in the role of the Admiral will be Lee H. Bristol, Jr., who also played the lead in last year's production of "Iolanthe."
Others in the cast will be Dr.
Warren Dodson as Captain Corcoran, Marianne White as Buttercup, Sheldon Simon as Ralph Rackstraw, Reba Gillman as Josephine, Donna Randall as Hebe and Frank Fellman as Dick Deadeye.

Three directors are in charge of the production of "H.M.S. Pin-afore." They are Munro Wade, stage director; Peter Delign, chor-ographer, and Noel Olson, music director. Mr. Wade and Mr. Olson served in the same capacities
for the Savoyards' "Iolanthe." Governor and Mrs. Meyer and 60 members of the New Jersey Legislature will attend the opening performance. Tickets for all performances are still available at the University Store.

BERMAN AT McCARTER
Comic Drawn Enthusiastic Crowds. Shelley Berman, who appeared before large audiences in two shows at McCarter Theatre Friday night, is not a "sack comic." There is an unfortunate lack of stability in his stage manner, but his satirical monologue is healthy, perceptive and often funny.

The audiences were composed largely of undergraduates and their Freshman From Weekend dates, and Mr. Berman was aware that many of his hearers were familiar with his best-selling records. Frequently the applause and laughter began before he had said more than a couple of lines of his better known routines, and it is a tribute to his skill that he is able to preserve a sense of spontaneity in sequences which he has undoubtedly repeated night after night for months.

At his best, as he was in a hilarious explanation of the reactions of a man who finds a black speck in his glass of milk, Mr.
Berman is superb. He is a fine comic actor and pantomimist and some of his man-on-the-telephone routines, which were enthusiastically received, are little satirical triumphs.

It is too bad, however, that he frequently does not know when to stop. Funny lines and situations are too often milked until they are no longer amusing, and one potentially effective bit about an ill-favored young man calling his girl-friend to find out why their relationship was going on the rocks was ruined by its length and redundancy.

Unsuspectful Finale. Mr. Berman was called back for an encore after his first show, but instead of continuing his monologue he engaged in a defensive and embarrassing half-tribute to his audience. He was obviously unsettled by the mild hissing that greeted his bitter cracks about McCarter (he had some microphone and lighting difficulties). All visiting performers should be advised that undergraduate hissing is usually good-natured and does not necessarily imply disapproval.

Like other irreverent comedians—Mort Sahl, Lenny Bruce, etc.—Mr. Berman has a compulsion to keep talking even when he has nothing to say. But he is a better comedian than most of his colleagues and, unlike them, he is not primarily an ad libber. Judicious scissoring of his material and more careful attention to the hoary injunction to leave 'em laughing would dramatically improve the presentation of the flashes of comic genius which his act undeniably contains.

Gateway Singers Perform. On the bill with Mr. Berman were the Gateway Singers, a slickly competent, entertaining folk singing group. The Singers stuck close to the warhorses of the folk field—"Kisses Sweeter Than Wine," "The Rock Island Line"—and while their canned patter was sometimes tiresome, their rapport with the audiences was complete.

"CLERMBARD" A GEM
Farce Pokes Fun at Tradition. The Count of Clermbard stood proudly in the living room of his family mansion, his baggy riding breeches and worn black bathrobe a fitting accompaniment to the cracked walls and dusty corners. Never would he sell this fine home, he declared, adding haughtily, "It has been in the family for 400 years."
"That's long enough!" snapped his mother-in-law. "Sell it!"

Thus began "Clermbard," the ribald and thought-provoking farce which paid a delightful visit to McCarter Theatre on Saturday. A highlight of the Celebrity Series, this Drama Guild production of Marcel Ayme's work is a brightly-polished gem.

All the actors were perfect in their parts, from their telling gestures to their crisp renditions of the rapid-fire dialog. Smooth direction brought out the best in the satirical plot, and the impressionistic settings with their harsh lighting added greatly to the mood.

Merry-go-Round of Satire. Using the crumbling mansion Count in his crumbling mansion as a starting point, "Clermbard" jumps quickly on a merry-go-round of destructive satire, taking pot shots at a carnival of established mores. The Count, it seems, has been making ends meet by selling his family up in a sweatshop in the living room, while he has foraged for food by killing the neighborhood cats and dogs.

This all comes to an abrupt halt when the Count has a vision of St. Francis of Assisi, who instructs him in the joy of loving all God's creatures. An immediate transformation results, with the Count hailing his wife for killing a spider—"You murdered your little sister!"—and turning down the offer of a million-franc dowry from the local grocer in order to arrange a marriage between his son and the town prostitute.

By the end of the play, the Count has sold his mansion and bought a gypsy cart in which the entire family can travel about, humbly begging food and "leaving a trail of love." Everyone accompanies him joyfully, for they too have seen a vision of St. Francis. Everyone, that is, except the local priest, who looks dazedly about while the others see the vision, muttering, "But I can't see anything! I can't see anything at all!"

From the audience, however, it was easy to see very clearly indeed, and while the probing light might have caused an occasional wince, there was no doubt that "Clermbard" was a sparkling show that well merited its reputation as one of the best of the old-Broadway plays.

THE PLAYHOUSE
Once More, With Feeling (April 27-30) is valuable chiefly because it provides a last glimpse of the terrifically talented Jay Kendall, who was ill during the filming and died of leukemia soon after it was completed. It will be a long while before another comedienne of her stature appears, and this is reason enough to see "Once More, With Feeling."

IT'S NEW To Us

FROM THE ISLANDS

Elverhøj Fashions Are Back. Elverhøj dresses, designed and made in Charlotte Amalie, Virgin Islands, by Beth Kiend, will be back at the Princeton Inn next Tuesday and Wednesday for your inspection and purchase. Go to Conference Room A on either day from 10 to 5 to see the delightful dresses that Kitty Atkinson has once more brought to Princeton for connoisseurs of the fine seam. In spite of their Caribbean origin, these dresses are suave and sleek—no bunched dirndls or peasant ruffles. For example, there's a non-crushable sheath in half linen, half dacron, with two minute tucks on each side of the waist and a print facing around boat neck and sleeveless armholes. The facing just barely shows as you move. In sage green, black, beige, cherry, yellow, pink or blue.

A pure silk cocktail dress made of turquoise, royal and myrtle blue print, is divided at the waist by a high sash, almost like an obi in back. It ties with a small bow in front.

The bodice has a boat neck and cap sleeves. Like all Beth Kiend's dresses, it is lined with silk organza. (The skirt on this one has been left unlined, so that the silk can billow more softly.)

Another cocktail dress feels like stiff lawn. It's a Mosque print of greens and blues in batik style and the print is used again for the three-inch underskirt ruffle that borders the white petticoat underneath. Beth Kiend is fond of the modified boat neck and the snug waist, tucked and darted and folded in artful and flattering ways.

Irish brush linen—a somewhat "broader" weave than the usual Irish linen—has been used in a casual dress with lime, natural and royal stripes, broken as though they had been drawn by a brush not quite full of ink. The full skirt has Basque tucks stitched down to about hip length for a flat fit. The back is long, and there is a narrow sash to tie in front (another of Kiend's trade marks.)

A charming young dress in Swiss poplin has a skirt of small unpressed pleats and a hem faced with white organza. The plain bodice is decorated with a quiet trellis of embroidery in the same grey, pink or blue as the dress. There will also be on display at

Even a Woman?

It's a foolproof camera that's what it is, and in this case, "fool" means "woman." Not, of course, that ladies are dull-witted. Heaven! Merely that women have their minds on more important matters than the trivia associated with trying to get correct exposure and shutter speed before taking a picture.

Agfa has thoughtfully sent to Mall Camera, in the Shopping Center, the 35-mm. Optima, billed as "the fully automatic camera."

"Once," says Agfa, "are all the obstacles to photography." You set a special lens with a big depth of field which eliminates the need for measuring distance. Then you press a button which gives you correct exposure automatically.

"You will," according to Agfa, "be able to achieve photographic 'masterpieces' in color or black and white, no course. The audience on which Agfa has focused is the feminine audience that can't tell a shutter from a lens. 'Foolproof,' gals!

the Princeton Inn a group of Italian cashmere skirts with matching sweaters in pastel colors. Skirts are silk-lined. These will be $19.50 a set.

Prices for the dresses start at $29.95 and go up to $45. The sizes are 10 to 18, and there will be two models at the Inn both days, so you can see just how you will look.

Color in Your Camera. Agfa, having taken care of people who don't want to set their own shutter speeds (see box), now produces a new color film that will take care of practically anybody who takes colored pictures.

This is Agafacolor, a very fine grain film which "sees" true color—blue skies, skin tones that are really the color of flesh, good reds. There are no "poster" effects and nothing artificial. Shallow detail is clear and without color casts.

You can use the Agafacolor negatives for color slides, if you use a projector. Or you can make black and white prints without special paper or dark-room techniques.

The new film is available at Mall Camera in the Shopping Center, in two speeds for very fine grain and enlargements, and a third film for the usual requirements.

Victorian, Late. Some fine examples of the silverwork done about 1870 are now on display and for sale at The Silver Shop on Palmer Square and those of you who think that Victorian means over-wrought, would do well to look at the charming pieces in this group.

THE EGG AND I: Yul Brynner and Kay Kendall share a tender moment in the Technicolor comedy, "Once More, With Feeling," which will be featured at the Playhouse through Saturday. The cast also includes Gregory Ratoff.

As a motion picture, however,
this slight story about a temper-
mental conductor (Yul Brynner),
his Russian-Yiddish manager, (Gregory Ratoff) and his marital difficulties with Miss Kendall) is pretty weak. Brynner should have learned by the time that he is not a comic actor except unintentionally, as in "Solomon and Sheba."
He substitutes energy for verve and when he occasionally gets off a good line, he grins secretly as if he had accidentally stumbled on the quantum theory. Ratoff also tries hard, but his job is made difficult by a script based on the assumption that phrases like "Let all my clients go to Sol Hurok if I'm not telling the truth" are serenading drivel.
But through it all, Miss Kendall is fresh and funny, and you may find, as we did, that after a couple of days all you can remember about the picture with any precision are some of her gestures and phrases. The film is in Technicolor. Recommended.

Heller in Pink Tights (May 1-3) features the Wild West debut of Sophia Loren, who is inauspiciously decked out for the occasion in blonde hair. The cast also includes Anthony Quinn, Margaret O'Brien, Steve Forrest, Ellen Hecker, Edmund Lowe and Ramon Novarro. Harold Lipstein is responsible for the excellent Technicolor photography.
Quinn is the director of a theatre company which is touring the West one step ahead of its creditors. He is in love with his star, Miss Loren, and is exasperated by her flirting and irresponsibility, which culminates when she leaves herself to Forrest in a poker game. Quinn learns of the wager during a hectic drive through Indian country and decides to disband the troupe. In an effort to win him back and to prove that beneath that wig beats a heart of unbleached gold, Miss Loren uses her charms to collect an overdue bill and sets up a theatre for Quinn.

It's all pleasantly done and Quinn is fine in his leading role.
Miss Loren, who has yet to provide her first serious threat to Helen Hayes, is amiable and fun to look at.

THE GARDEN

The Wind Cannot Read (April 26-30) hinges on a piece of nature symbolism which would make even
D. H. Lawrence wince: At a Burmese jungle outpost, warlike and ugly, a British sergeant posts a sign asking the soldiers not to cut the flowers in a tiny garden.
Later, because it is illiterate, the wind uproots the blooms and carries them off into space. Nature, you see, is irrational and uncontrollable, and it's a hard row we mortals have to hoe.

The stars are Dirk Bogarde, Yoko Tani and Ronald Lewis. Bogarde, a soldier, and Miss Tani meet in India where she is an instructress. Despite racial barriers, they marry and are blissfully happy until he is captured and tortured. Receiving word that his wife is ill, Bogarde escapes and rushes to her bedside just in time for a melodramatic death scene. A woman's so good and true should not have died, Bogarde protests, but he has forgotten that the wind cannot read.

Diabolique (May 2) is probably the most terrifying film of the last ten years. Featuring Simone Signoret, who won an Academy Award last month for her role in "Room at the Top," the picture is an ingenious recounting of the efforts of a woman and her lover
to escape the ambulatory
"corpse" of her supposedly murdered husband.

The bulk of the action takes place at a private school in France, and the film is a kind of parable of the guilt that follows
sin. At one point, after the crime has been committed, the student body and faculty are lined up in front of the school for a formal picture. When the negative is developed, the ill-used husband is seen peeking from an upstairs window. After this, the danger of cinematism would seem to be over,
very real, but the film's conclusion is just about the most chilling thing we've ever seen on the screen. In French with English titles and not for the young and impressionable, the film is skillfully done, with first-rate acting and direction. Recommended.

staff include two for Princeton High School and four for Borough elementary schools. The high school teachers are William D. Humes, a graduate of Lycoming College who is currently studying advanced mathematics at Western Reserve University, who will teach mathematics, and Miss Joan Van Emburgh, a senior at Trenton State College, who will teach physical education.

Named to the staff of Nassau Street School were Mrs. Doris A. Smith, who will teach third grade, and Miss Bonita Bendin, who will teach French. Mrs. Smith, a graduate of the Women's College of the University of North Carolina, has been a teacher at the Chapin School for the last two years. Miss Bendin, a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, spent her junior year at the University of Paris.

New teachers on the staff of Waterspout School will be Miss Barbara Ann Jones, who will be library aide, and also teach English, and Miss Nancy K. Benham, who will also teach English. Miss Jones is a graduate of New Haven State College and has her master's degree in library science from Rutgers University. Miss Benham will graduate this Spring from Denison University.

"OPERATION ALERT"

Nation-wide Participation Set. "Operation Alert 1960," the annual nation-wide practice defense exercise, will be held next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The public will participate only on Tuesday afternoon, when the ALERT will sound at 2 p.m.—a steady, three-minute siren.

At 2:15, the "take cover" will be heard—a fluctuating three-minute sound. All vehicular traffic will be halted; schools, business and industrial firms will carry out their emergency plans; customers in stores and offices will remain until the all-clear and persons who are in private homes will go to the safest shelter areas in the house.

The Post Office, Borough Hall and Township Hall are public shelters to which pedestrians may go. Disaster Control officials point out that willful violators of these

Bys Bys, Birdie (Maybe)

An all-out effort to rid the Princeton High School tower of omnipresent pigeons is about to begin. Bryan V. Moore, member of the Borough Board of Education, announced at this Tuesday's meeting that a special paint designed to repel pigeons has been ordered and will be applied in the near future.

A program to dangle the pigeon pigeon, which has long been a source of complaint, was among the actions urged by PHS students at a recent board session when students took over the roles of board members. The student requesting the action on the pigeons was Miss Mardie Coyle, freshman.

Complimenting Mr. Moore on his efficiency, Graham Rohrer, board president, said, "I'm amazed that this particular job has been approached so scientifically and so speedily. I thought it would be one of the most difficult of the student requests."

Instructions may be subject to arrest, under the New Jersey Disorderly Conduct Code. The "all-clear" (steady three-minute siren) will sound at 2:30.

During this half-hour of public participation, there will be a complete hook-up of all the nation's CONELRAD stations for the first time. The CONELRAD frequencies, 640 and 1240 on the radio dial, will be on from 2 to 2:30. Eighteen radio stations in New Jersey, including seven FM stations, will take part in the drill and all other radio and television stations will be on the air. In the event of actual attack, CONELRAD stations would provide fail-out warnings and instructions.

State and county control centers will be manned around the clock during the three-day drill. In order to make the exercise more realistic, the number of "bombs" dropped and the "target areas" will not be revealed ahead of time. Disaster Control personnel will continue to work during Wednesday and Thursday to evaluate the effects of "bomb hits" throughout the nation, determine the force and direction of winds and estimate from these data, the effects of fallout on areas in the path of the wind pattern.

Princeton residents who have questions about the forthcoming alert may call the Disaster Control Director's Office, 102 Witherspoon Street.

CYCLIST FINED

In Traffic Court, Johnnie E. Rorie, 26, of 35 Leigh Avenue was fined $15 for careless driving by Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. for driving his motorcycle into the rear of a car operated by Mrs. Ruth Pettit, 35, of 104 Bayard Lane.

Mr. Rorie, who had been wearing dark glasses, told police he failed to see the directional light flashing on Mrs. Pettit's car which she had slowed to make a turn into her driveway. The accident occurred Friday afternoon.

In other traffic cases, Samuel S. Wilks, 53, of 1 Camplenton Circle and Peter W. Macky, 22, of Brown Hall, Princeton University were each accused of two infractions. Mr. Wilks was fined $15 for speeding, a charge he denied, and $3 for double parking. Mr. Macky, —Continued on Page 10

Question of the Week

Question: What book have you read in the past few years that will, in your opinion, still be read 50 years from now?

Where asked: Princeton Public Library.

Dr. H. L. Savage, 210 Prospect Avenue, archivist at Firestone Library: "I should say Winston Churchill's 'A History of the English-Speaking Peoples.' It represents a fresh estimate of relations between two great powers that are closely bound in blood and speech.

Mrs. William H. Martin, Woodville-Marshall's Corners Road, Hopewell, housewife: "These Lovers Fleed Away" by Howard Spring, an Englishman. He has been compared with Charles Dickens but I like him better than Dickens. He is easier to read and not as long and wordy. His characters are very realistic and literally spring into life.

Christopher Pool, 300 Hamilton Hall, University student: A book that interested me very much by Ayn Rand called "The Fountainhead." I feel the book is a good barometer of our times. It gives a realistic portrait of the contemporary generation — the push-button world, big syndicate sort of thing where it is no longer a question of individual men but of The Organization. It analyzed the question of capitalism as opposed to altruism or philanthropy as a way of asserting oneself in the world; the egoist versus the mass society; the individual who tries to accomplish something.

Mrs. P. William Hutchinson, 345 Nassau Street, an assistant librarian, Princeton Public Library: "I'm sure that the play, 'JB,' by Archibald MacLeish will still be read 50 years from now. It deals with a problem that will affect men through eternity: suffering.

Mrs. Kenneth Young, Lincoln Highway, Kingston, an assistant librarian, Princeton Public Library: "The Screw Letters" by C. S. Lewis. Mr. Lewis is one of our best critics of our social and religious life and if ever society in 2010 wants to know of the problems faced by society in 1960 they would do well to turn to Lewis who so ably described them.

Frederick W. Wolfe, 37 Bank Street, artist: "War and Civilization" by Thorstein B. Veblen. He is one of the outstanding historians of our era. He puts what he knows to be true in words and he presents facts as they are and not as we would like them to be, or are accustomed to hearing them. The sugary, "we're — always — ahead" sort of thing.

Mrs. Russell Butler, 91 Battle Road, housewife: "The Village School" by Miss Reid, a pseudonym. It's an English novel and contains a perfectly delightful story about pleasant people that made sense. Most of the novels that I have read, anyway, in this country do not. American novels paint such a horrid, unpleasant picture of life. Their people have no morals, say the most disagreeable things and have such a poor opinion of humanity. They have no religion, there is nothing. People aren't like that.

Charles C. Stech, 138 Jefferson Road, survey director: "Uses of the Past" by Herbert J. Muller. He knows how to write and has aroused much comment, especially adverse comment from specialists. Muller deals with the subject of religion with a minimum of offense, a very difficult thing to do. His book is definitely not for Fundamentalists, but other people, I feel, would find it enlightening. I liked the book so much that I have sent a number of friends copies.

Mrs. Martha Ringley, 183 Loomis Court, housewife: The novel Exodus. Since I was born in Europe and came to this country during the Hitler regime, the concentration camp episode in the book affected me greatly. On the same subject, I've just read the biography of Ben Gurion by St. John which, I thought, was very well-written and described the prime minister of Israel beautifully.

Richard R. Gilbert, The Great Road, minister: Winston Churchill's "History of the English-Speaking Peoples" will be widely read not only for its historic value, which is highly subjective, but primarily for its literary value which reflects his mere spirit.

Mrs. Richard Colman, 2 Campbell Circle, housewife: Possibly the Alexandrian Tetrlogy just recently completed by Lawrence Durrell. He presents a new conception of time since the books aren't written as sequels but as different dimensions of the same story.

Hadley Cantril, 124 Mercer Street, social researcher: Lao Tzu's "The Way of Life." I read it every year and I think it has as much to offer as about any book there is. It is only about 50 pages long but it is a book you never finish reading. Everytime you read it you see something new.

Mrs. Walter Roberts, Dodge Road, housewife: "The Book I've just finished reading, 'Advice and Consent.' I think it has great educational value. It gives an intimate, blow-by-blow account of the workings in all phases of politics and government in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Sigurd Waasnes, 32 Chestnut Street, housewife: I think of Eugene Ionesco, a Rumanian playwright living in Paris. He's the most offbeat, the most real crazy, warped-sense-of-humor style that is extreme, nonsensical, and cruel, but one which, he feels, represents the present cruel and inhuman world we are living in, in which true values have been obscured, ignored and distorted. Also, he is good theatre, aside from his message.

Mrs. Eileea Summerfield, 961 Kingston Road, housewife: I think "Tom-Tit" will always be of interest to readers. It is an exciting story and one learns a lot about the sea from it. The fact that it is a true story which happened to real people adds to its value.

GIFTS TO SERVE THE WORLD: Mrs. Howard Waxwood (left), adult program director for the Princeton YWCA, and Mrs. S. H. Tan of Princeton Junction are displaying some of the gifts and packages that will be on sale at Y's International Festival Saturday. Mrs. Waxwood is holding a doll made in Japan, provided by Japanese in the area interested in the YWCA International program. Mrs. Tan is holding one of the many packages containing small gifts valued at approximately $1 which have been sent by Y-Teen departments in virtually every state in the nation, including two from Hawaii.

Our favorite is a jug for hot water or cocoa, made in the '70's. It stands eight inches, with a wide, urn-shaped bottom tapering to a smaller neck. There is a wide, generous lip covered with a lid which you control by thumb. Handle and finial are ebony, silver itself is graceful and unadorned.

A Sheffield waiter from the same period, has a tracery of etching on the bottom and a border of pointed scallops. The little tray is 12 inches in diameter with a tripod of silver nubs to keep it off the mahogany. It has a companion, made about 1875, with a drier etching of scrolls and concentric circles around the monogram "W.M." There's a rope border.

In the mid-70s, Hawksworth Eyre made a wine coaster with a pelican crest on its openwork silver gallery. Atkin made, about 1865, a pair of entree plates—covered English silverplate dishes with broad, plain, rather masculine lines and squared-off corners. A single dish, similar in design, has a cushion border on both top and bottom of both parts so that it makes a complete "pair" when you take it apart for serving.

From an earlier day, The Silver Shop has silver spoons by Hester Bateman, made in London in 1789. There is a stuffing spoon with modified rat tail, and five teaspoons from 1744. The little teaspoons, slightly larger than demitasse spoons, are thin, worn and exquisitely simple.

You'll recall the massive china platter that The Shop made into an end table. Now, there is a tray table built around a galleried silver tray. The mahogany table is longer than the platter table, and slightly wider. The feet of the tray fit into a custom-built space so that nothing can slip. $125, with tray.

EVALUATION UNDERTAKEN

By Borough Board of Health. David T. Blake, Borough Health Officer, has revealed that the Health Department, working closely with Dr. Godfrey Estey, central district Health Officer of New Jersey and Frederick Meyer, consultant for the State Department of Health, is in the process of evaluating the health problems and needs of the Borough.

"We have worked out a comprehensive survey covering all phases of what a good public health department should be and do," Mr. Blake said. "We intend sending this to neighboring health officers and allied agencies and persons interested in public health. Their replies and suggestions will be used as a guide for our own board in our efforts to find out in what areas we can do a better job than we are doing now," he added.

A partial list of the headings in the survey includes acute communicable diseases, laboratory services, veterinary public health, nutrition, crippled children, maternal and child health, chronic and preventable diseases, venereal disease control, TB control, environmental sanitation, public water supply, sewage disposal, garbage and refuse disposal, milk and milk products, swimming pools, insect and rodent control, and ragweed and poison ivy control.

TO WORK FOR CASE

"Look Forward With Confidence." Commenting on the re-nomination of Senator Clifford P. Case in the Republican Primaries, Thomas P. Cook, chairman of the Princeton Committee for Case, had this to say: "Republicans can now look forward with confidence to a future in which the modern thinkers in the party will prevail and the party will be able to win elections and to serve the needs of the people. I wish to thank all those who worked, contributed and voted for Senator Case. They have done a great service to the party, the state and the country."

Mrs. Elmer Alpert, a director of the Princeton League of Women Voters and a state director of the League in New Jersey, has announced her resignation from both positions in order to work with Mr. Cook and his Citizens for Case Committee. The League is a non-partisan organization, which encourages its members to participate in the activities of political parties. However, Board members customarily resign their positions when they enter active politics.

Robert Besant, Mrs. Mark Stevig, Mrs. Brian Davis and Mrs. Frederick Nagle.

SCHOLARSHIP GIVEN

By Vassar Club. The Vassar Club of Central New Jersey has awarded a special scholarship to Catherine Aubin, sophomore at Vassar, and a graduate of Monticelli High School. The announcement was made at the annual meeting of the Club at the home of Mrs. J. H. Colby, The Great Road.

OIL HEAT COUNCIL OF NEW JERSEY

Report from THE MAYOR

Meeting on Prospect Planned. Mayor and Council will hold a special meeting this Thursday, April 28, at 8 p.m., in Borough Hall to take final action on the ordinance with respect to the extension of Prospect Avenue from Cedar Lane to the Borough line. The public hearing on April 12 produced a number of pros and cons for the deliberation of Council. At this week's session, Councilman Leuter will be absent because of another public service which has called him out of the state, but he has left a signed statement of his views on the ordinance so that his colleagues and the public will know where he stands on this matter.

A Doubleheader Is Scheduled. Thursday evening's session will actually be the second meeting that day for the governing body. At 4:30 p.m., the schedule calls for a hearing on an alleged violation of the alcoholic beverage law. The hearing was previously postponed at the request of the justice.

Liquor licensees have occupied the attention of Mayor and Council frequently of late. Last Thursday, each of the seven applicants for the available license was interviewed. Even the applicants seemed to agree that Council was confronted with a difficult decision.

To Reactivate Auxiliary Police. At the request of Captain Sage and with the advice of Borough Attorney McCarthy, Mayor and Council are working toward the reactivation of the auxiliary police. This group will presumably be a joint Borough-Township force which would be under the direction of our civil defense and disaster control coordinator. State law requires a training period for these men. It is anticipated that the recruits will be given a pre-appointment medical and physical examination and other tests to determine fitness for this important responsibility.

Safety Meeting Announced. Chairman Tams has scheduled an important meeting of the Borough Safety Committee for this Thursday, April 28, at 3:30 p.m. High on the agenda will be a consideration of recommendations to be made to the Council concerning the Washington Road pedestrian hazards. Preliminary studies have been made concerning lighting, signs, fencing and other ideas presented at the last meeting of the safety group.

Review Of Sites Thursday. Also on Thursday, the Borough is expecting an official visit from Federal officials who will inspect the proposed sites for the 13 public housing units required as relocation homes in connection with the urban renewal project. It is expected that the decision of the New Jersey Supreme Court in the pending litigation will be handed down shortly.

"Toll Is To The Mayor:" The regular weekly "open house" session.

ations will be held this Friday, April 29, and next Friday, May 6, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Some time ago, four youngsters dropped by to volunteer their services to help with Borough clean-up or beautification projects. Last Saturday morning they brought about 40 of their young friends to spruce up the war memorial at the corner of Mercer and Stockton Streets.

Their energy and spirit impressed passers-by who expressed the hope that their enthusiasm would be contagious for the rest of the community as we prepare for Clean-Up Week, May 2 to 7. These boys have learned very early the value and the fun involved in constructive public service.

be featured, as well as games of chance and skill, a side show and booths for food. Lunch will be served cafeteria style, beginning at 11:30 when the fair opens.

Mrs. Karl D. Pettit Jr. is chairman of the fair, with Lawrence Benson serving as treasurer. Committee chairmen include Mrs. Arthur Sherwood, Mrs. Warren Shaw, Mrs. Charles Hannan, Mrs. Nicholas Cameron, Leighton Laughlin and Robert Wallick.

FEDERALISTS WILL MEET To Hear Speakers, Dr. Hubert N. Alyea, department of chemistry, Princeton University, and Louis B. Dailey, president of the state chapter of the United World Federalists, will speak to the Princeton chapter of the UWF at the group's annual public dinner to be held on Tuesday, May 3, at the Nassau Inn.

Harland W. Hoisington, Jr., president of the Princeton chapter, is general chairman of the dinner. ## Obituaries

Dr. David Magie, 83, of 101 Liberty Place, died April 23 at his home. Professor emeritus of classics at Princeton University, he graduated from the University in 1897 and received his master's degree in 1899 when he became an instructor in Latin. He received his earlier education at Lyons' Classical School, and taught for a year at Lawrenceville School after graduating from Princeton.

He gained his doctoral degree from the University of Halle in Germany where he studied from 1901 until 1904. Upon his return to Princeton, he was named preceptor in classics in 1905 and achieved the rank of full professor in 1911. He retired from the faculty in 1935.

The grandson of James McCosh, 11th president of Princeton, Dr. Magie was born in New York City. He was a member of the second University Archaeological Expedition to Syria in 1908, and during World War I served with the Justice Department and the American Mission to Negotiate Peace.

In 1931, the American Philological Association made him the first recipient of its Award of Merit for his two-volume work, "Roman Rule in Asia Minor," published in 1909 by Princeton University Press. The award, the highest conferred by the society, recognized his contributions in "the promotion of humane studies," and cited the 1660-page project as "the outstanding work out of the many outstanding works" on the expansion of the Roman empire in Asia between 133 B.C. and 260 A.D.

His only survivor is a brother, James McCosh Magie of New York City. The funeral was held in the University Chapel with Dean Ernest Goddard officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery under direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

THREE MOVE IN

Thompson Adds Tenants. Three new tenants have moved into office space in the Thompson Building and Thompson Court at 195 Nassau Street. The property, owned by W. Bryce Thompson IV, includes parking space for 40 cars and occupies about 14,000 square feet.

Magna Bond Products Inc. and Joseph A. Dougherty Associates Inc. are new tenants at Thompson Court. Thomas J. Sullivan, who was a star swimmer at Princeton University, has opened a district office for Magna Bond, whose main office is in Camden. The company produces a plastic paint. The public relations firm of Joseph A. Dougherty Associates will handle the account of Chemical Corporation of America, where Mr. Dougherty was executive vice-president. He had previously been an account supervisor at J. Walter Thompson and Young & Rubicam in New York City.

The Thompson Building has also gained as a tenant Endeavor Corporation, a branch of the California corporation which produces instruments measuring dynamic phenomena and their electronic systems. Carl Salen is the field engineer in charge of the Princeton office.

Other tenants of the two buildings are F. C. Hoyt Company, Willis F. Paine D.D.S., Weatherly Inc., Builders, William G. Seaman C.P.A. and Thompson Realty. The Thompson Building was put up in 1887 as the residence for John J. Golden. The nine garages in the rear were converted to Thompson Court, and once housed Princeton's first taxis and an antique shop.

Future plans include the conversion of the Thompson Building's lower level to shop space for full occupancy. A double office or shop suite is available in the court and two rooms for offices are vacant in the main building.

SEVEN RACES SATURDAY

Clashed By Childs Cup. The pleasurable pastime of sitting on grassy banks while crews flash across sunlit waters will return to Princeton on Saturday afternoon. In all, seven races are scheduled (see box), with good weather expected to draw upwards of 2,000 to Lake Carnegie's shores near the finish line at the Kingston dam.

Princeton, loser to Navy last last weekend by two and a half lengths, will be trying to win the classic Childs Cup race for the first time since 1957. Defending champion Pennsylvania is a slight favorite to retain the trophy, while a Columbia victory would be a stunning upset. If the Lions win, it will be for the first time in 20 years.

The Tigers chased Navy with some success for the first mile and a half of the two-mile race on the Severn River, eventually giving in to the high beat the midshipmen were able to sustain. The Orange and Black rats trailed by only half a length with half a mile to go, but the victors widened the gap steadily, hitting an unusual high of 40 just before the finish.

Navy's junior varsity and plebe crews also won by respective margins of three-quarters of a length and a length and a quarter. In each case, the Princeton showing was considered a satisfactory against the well-conditioned, high-regarded midshipmen.

Princeton's varsity 150-lb. crew salvaged the lone victory on the Severn, trimming Navy by a tenth of a second over the Henley distance. The Tigers, who added the middles to Columbia as their second victim, trailed by a quarter length with 100 yards to go but a fine drive nipped the opposition by less than a deck length.

Lack of practice and lack of weight among its personnel kept the Tiger varsity from going higher than a stroke of 31 1/2 against Navy. Penn will provide a full share of opposition this weekend, with the Tigers hoping for their first victory in more than two years.

INDIANS SHELLED

By Nine-Run Inning. Ability to roll the opposition through use of baseball's most prized weapon, "the big inning," was again demonstrated on Saturday by Princeton. Trailing 4-2 in the sixth, the Tigers jammed nine runs across the plate as 11 men batted, thereby wrapping up an 11-4 triumph for their first victory over Dartmouth in four years.

Earlier in the week, senior Bill Douglas had hurled a no-hit game against Manhattan to give the Orange and Black an 8-0 victory. See "We Congratulate," page 25, for details.

A 2-0 Princeton lead against the Indians had vanished, as had starter Wally Phillips, by the time the Tigers came to bat in the bottom of the sixth. Two costly errors and a bases-loaded single by shortstop Chuck Kaufman pushed four runs across the plate for the visitors in the previous inning. The play-by-play of the big inning:

Ken Murray tripled to right center, scoring on Elmer Napies' single to left. Ex-Red Sox player Tony Lupien, Dartmouth coach, switched pitchers and Jack Whitehouse sacrificed Napies to second. Bill Karjane singled to left, scoring Whitehouse, and took second

Saturday's Crawl Schedule

The starting times for Saturday's seven-race regatta on Lake Carnegie (finish line just above the Kingston dam):

4:30—Childs Cup, Columbia, Penn, Princeton.
(Heavyweight races, 1 1/2 miles)

when the throw to the plate got away from the catcher. Lupien scored pitchers again.

The new Dartmouth hurler's first effort was a wild pitch that sent Karjane to third. Jim Miller walked, Bob Myslik singled to right, scoring Karjane. Mickey Devine was safe when the pitcher dropped the first base men's throw, filling the bases. Bill MacMillan emptied them with a double over the center fielder's head but Mike Ippolito walked and so did Murray, up for the second time, to fill the bases again. Napies' squeeze bunt scored MacMillan. Another wild pitch scored Ippolito, the other runners also advancing. Whitehouse was hit by the pitcher. The pitcher balked, Murray scoring. Karjane walked, Whitehouse taking third on the fourth pitch, a passed ball. Hunter, the 14th man to bat, filed to right to end the inning.

OTHER SPORTS

Thurber Breaks Own Record. A javelin heave of 222 feet, 7 inches against Rutgers ensued sophomore Ed Thurber to break the University record he had set last year as a freshman. The Lawrenceville resident, a good bet to place in the ICA meet next month, has thrown better than 230 feet in practice.

Princeton trimmed the Scarlet in Palmetto Stadium, 91-49, a fine 47.3 quarter-mile by Dick Edmunds lending hope that his chronic heel injury will not stop him this spring. Wednesday's meet against Columbia, last this season in which Princeton will be favored, will be followed by another at 2 Saturday in the Stadium with Harvard.

Lacrosse Team Loses Fourth. A brief 2-0 lead over powerful Army vanished quickly Saturday on University Field as the cadets' lacrosse team handed Princeton its fourth straight defeat. It was a 15-6 final, with the visitors holding leads of 5-2 after the first period and 8-0 at the half.

Ferris Thomsen's ten opened his Ivy season Wednesday against Pennsylvania, and travels to Hanover to face Dartmouth on Saturday. Defense of the Ivy title it holds is figured to go down to the final game of the year against Cornell here on May 21.

DAVE DOUGLAS Princeton Pitcher

The team atop the respected Metropolitan Baseball Conference, composed of greater New York's top eight teams, is Manhattan, boasting a solid 7-0 record. Overall, the Jaspers are 10-1, but that lone defeat is one they'll remember all season long.

Dave Douglas, 21-year old Princeton senior, will remember it for the rest of his life. The slightly-built (5-11, 155) left-hander threw a no-hitter against Manhattan last Thursday on University Field, and as the handful of fans can testify, it was a near-perfection from start to finish.

Getting errorless support from his mates, Douglas allowed only four balls to be hit out of the infield, three of them fair. He struck out seven, and was responsible for the only three men to reach base, two of them walked, one got all the way to third when the Tiger pitcher threw wild on a bunt, but he preserved the shutout by getting the other three batters in routine fashion.

As it should be on the big day at Princeton, Douglas did well at the plate, drawing a walk and then hitting a lead-off double in the Tiger's fourth run sixth. Two in the first and single tallies in the sixth and eighth eliminated all pressure that a close game adds, allowing him to concentrate on the goal of a possible place in baseball's no-hit hall of fame.

A combination of good pitching and good fortune brought Douglas through the all-in-important ninth inning. The Jedoch batter hammered a low line drive at third baseman Bob Mysik which the Tiger infielder caught no more than shin-high. A swinging bunt could have ended the dream, but catcher Elmer Naples pounced on it to get the runner at first handily. Another throw play—a slow roller just beyond the pitcher's mound—could only have gone for a hit had the third batter in the inning beaten it out, sophomore shortstop Jack Whitehouse made the play like a veteran and the team swarmed all over Douglas with back-pounding congratulations. Among the handshakes were several from Manhattan players.

The no-hitter was the first for a Princeton pitcher since Harry Brightman blanked Fordham, 5-0, in May of 1952 and only the third in the last quarter-century. For Dave Douglas, there will always be the memory that on April 21, 1960, he pitched to perfection.

High School Wednesday on the visitors' home field. Ahead for coach Win Niles' Little Tigers lie the Penn Relays Friday and Saturday and a dual meet against Stiehmert on Monday at Harris Field.

Coach Niles was undismayed by the defeat, pointing out that his team performed much better this time than last year against New Brunswick, which practices throughout the winter on an indoor track. "We were all even at 18-18 when they came in 1-2-3 in the quarter mile and that was the meet," Niles said. "But a lot of boys looked good and should improve before our next meet," he added.

The only dual winner for the Blue & White was co-captain Lament Fletcher, who took first in the 120-yard high hurdles with a 15.3, and whose 20.2 was good for first place in the 180-yard low hurdle. Ridge Applegate, the team's other co-captain, won the shot put with a toss of 47'10". Sharing a three-way tie for first place of 5 feet six inches in the high jump was sophomore Richard Bedford. That, as Coach Dick Wood, in charge of the jumping events, pointed out, is pretty good for a boy only 5 feet 8 inches tall.

The Little Tigers swept the javelin, Joe Beachell coming up with a winning throw of 172 feet 6 inches. Following Beachell were Ben Collins, second; John Everson, third; Jack Copeland, fourth; and Sam Spangenberg, fifth. Steve Schietta, one of the boys who impressed Coach Niles with his performance in the opening meet, came in second in the 100-yard

John Conroy's tennis team edged Notre Dame, 5-3, and blanked Army, 6-0, to remain unbeaten this spring. Dartmouth and Navy this weekend do not figure to create trouble, but Yale and probably Harvard loom as more than the Tigers can handle.

The golf team topped Harvard and Brown at Ramford by identical scores of 6-1, and have another triangular match on tap Saturday. It will be played at 1:30 on the Springfield course, against Army and Georgetown.

MEN'S SOFTBALL SET

In other Princeton bowling action last week, Shelton Motors (68) maintained a three-point edge over the Bookies in the "A" loop, and Tiger Garage held a six-point margin over Wengryn Construction (41) in the Industrial League.

Tiger Bus and Nassau Del were tied at 73 points each in the Women's League, while Cranbury Annan Homes were next with 68 points each. Cicely's (63) led the Women's Industrial loop followed by Decker's (61), and Anthony's and the Hi-L's tied at 58 points each. Physics widened its lead to five points over Machine Development (66) in the Faculty League.

Wally Brown rolled the high individual game of the week with a 240, which he coupled with a 230 and 119 for a 636 series in the Industrial League. Joe Beldino added a 612 series in the "B" loop with games of 215-189-238. ### MIDGET LEAGUE BEGINS

Fund Drive Set For Saturday. Managers, coaches and more than 200 players took the field last week as they began practice sessions for the 1960 YMCA Midget League season. Opening day was Monday: the 1-a-g-u-e will play three games nightly, from 6 to 8, on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings until early June.

Players, under the supervision of their managers and fathers will conduct a Booster Sale from 9-30 until noon on Saturday. The receipts collected from the sale of booster tickets throughout the community will be used to help pay for uniforms and set up a fund for future uniform replacements.

This will be the first time, reported Commissioner B. E. Bergesen, Jr., that the entire league will be fully suited in colorful new uniforms. Another change which will help strengthen the league will be the inauguration of the pre-league training program, he noted.

The new program, set up by a ruling of the Baseball Outing, provides for a full year of training and development for nine-year old ballplayers. It will make possible smaller major league squads with better opportunity for coaching and playing, as well as better future prospects since boys will join the majors as one-year "veterans."

TIGERS RUN ANOTHER
As Hanks Mount Up, Continuing to score runs in a manner unduplicated in years at University Field, Princeton's baseball team (8-3) hammered another opponent into submission Tuesday. The loser by a 13-2 margin, Villanova came into the contest with a line 8-1 mark.

Sole home runs by sophomore Mike Devine and senior Ken Murray and a two-run triple by Captain Mike Ippolito dominated the Tigers' extra-base barrage. Devine's first-inning blow cleared the right field fence some 360 feet from the plate, while Murray's was something of a gift as the centerfielder misjudged his line drive into an inside-the-park round tripper.

Three Villanova pitchers were unusually generous with bases on balls, issuing a total of 16. That, combined with eight timely hits, allowed Princeton to score in each of the first five innings, after which the Tigers understandably subsided.

Single runs in the first three innings were followed by a pair in the fourth and six in the fifth, when a dozen men went to the plate. The Orange and Black collected only two hits in this round but took advantage of seven walks and a wild pitch. Dave Douglas was the winning hurler, going the distance to raise his record to 4 and 2 as he scattered seven hits and fanned eight.
